Le Journal of Digital History est:

- une revue scientifique internationale,
- en accès libre (diamond),
- avec évaluation par les pairs en double aveugle,
- permettant l'écriture d'articles à « couches multiples »
- valorisant les recherches sur le passé dites data-driven

The first issue of the Journal of Digital History has been released

Scalable historiography: storytelling, hermeneutics, data

The top layer could be a concise account of the subject, available perhaps in paperback. The next layer could contain expanded versions of different aspects of the argument, not arranged sequentially as in a narrative, but rather as self-contained units that feed into the topmost story. The third layer could be composed of documentation, possibly of different kinds, each set off by interpretative essays. A fourth layer might be theoretical or historiographical, with selections from previous scholarship and discussions of them. A fifth layer could be pedagogic, consisting of suggestions for classroom discussion and a model syllabus. And a sixth layer could contain readers' reports, exchanges between the author and the editor, and letters from readers, who could provide a growing corpus of commentary as the book made its way through different groups of readers.

Quel éditeur?

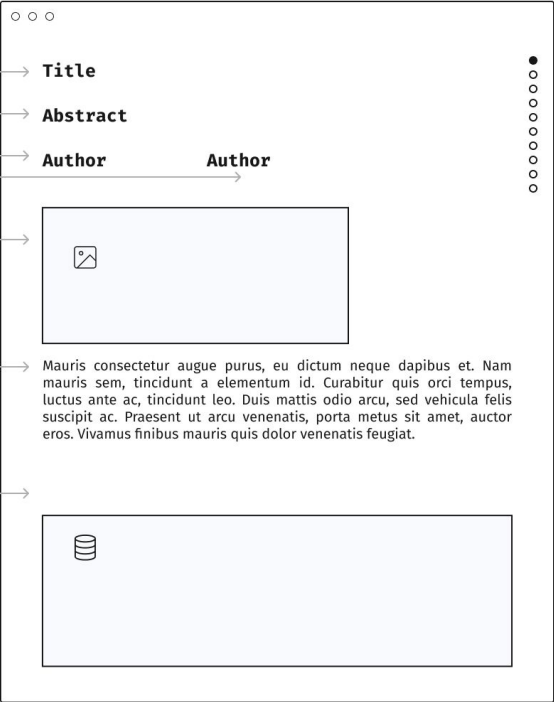

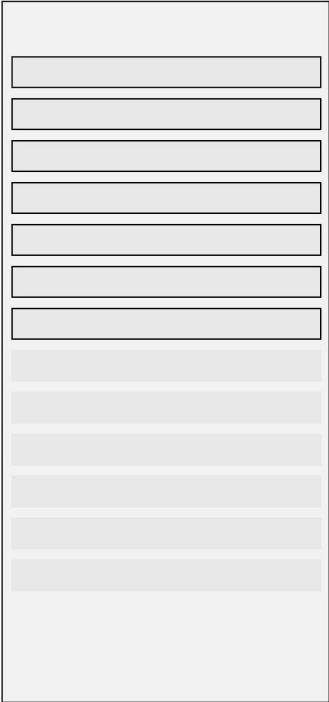

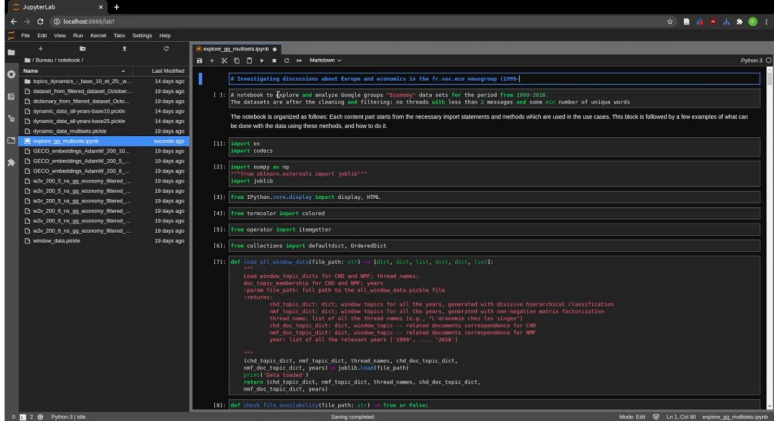

Le logiciel d'édition des articles devait:

- être facile à apprendre,
- être pérenne,
- permettre la création d'article exécutable,
- combiner écriture, média, code, données,
- s'intégrer à un écosystème plus large de stockage et d'accès aux données.
